

Introduction	This list
My Place in the Country	A look around the village as it then was
Country Living	What was it like to live in one of those quaint thatched cottages?
Village Shops and Services	An overview of the village retail and other services
Suffer Little Children	Sunday School at the Methodist chapel in Lower Street
At War With The Evacuees	The wartime evacuees and their impact on the lives of village children.
Sunshine Corner	Children's services held at the Elim Four Square chapel
War Memorial Memories	Thoughts about the village men whose names feature on the a war memorial, plus memories of armistice parades
Fin, Fur and Feather	The sort of things country boys used to get up to
Mr Chedzoy's Oil Boy	Saturday work as an 'oil boy' that provided pocket money
Red Dominoes And Green Tins Of Dubbin	A child's view of the arrival and departure of the American GI's
Father's Shed	Potatoes, coal, bicycles and the odd rat
My Quest To Wear A Grammar School Nutshell	School days: fit-togethers, knitting and the divisive 11+ examination
Ging Gang Gooleee Goolee	Memories of burnt bread twists, smoky cocoa and the freedom of camping
Salad Server Days	Post 11+ education for children denied secondary education. We made wooden salad servers and grew parsnips instead
Yeovil Technical School	Educational pastures new
The Merriott Marathon	Long before the London Marathon there was the Merriott Marathon, twice around the village
The Village Sporting Scene	Football, bowls and snooker
Thank Heaven For Smelly Toilets	Recalling my first job working at Merriott Mouldings in the 1950s
Whose Is This's, Gwen's Or Sis's?	A brief memory of Gwen and Sis, conductresses on the Safeway buses
A Step Or Two In The Right Direction	Learning to dance, stepping out in more ways than one
Moving On	New horizons, new experiences
And Finally	A family photograph